Map

The venue is close to the University of Warsaw, and there are bus stops (Uniwersytet) and one subway stop (M2, Nowy Świat-Uniwersytet) nearby. Tickets are available from ticket machines (3.40 PLN for 20 minutes or 4.40 PLN for 70 minutes). The entrance to the Staszic Palace, the seat of the Institute, is easy to find: just look for the Nicolaus Copernicus Monument.

Transportation

There are two airports in Warsaw: Warsaw Chopin and Warsaw Modlin (outside the city, for Ryanair flights only). There are city buses and trains operating from the Warsaw

Chopin to the city center. Taxis to the city center are affordable. From Warsaw Modlin, you can take a train from a nearby train station (the bus shuttle to the station is covered by the ticket price) or a bus to the city center. The taxis from Modlin are not recommended because they will all be overpriced.

Train timetables are available on the Polish Railways website.

Lodging

There are many hotels near the venue. Most hotels can be easily found via booking.com. Our advice is to book accommodation in the walking distance or close to M2 subway stations.

Restaurants

There are many restaurants near the Staszic Palace — at Nowy Świat Street as well as at Krakowskie Przedmieście Street and in the Old Town (about 10 minutes of walking from the Staszic Palace). Bills of fare are accessible at entrances, frequently also in English.
